

KABUKI

SUPPORT//SHARE//STRENGTH

Kabuki Syndrome is a rare and complex genetic disorder affecting approximately 1 in 32,000 people. A diagnosis of Kabuki Syndrome can result in upsetting feelings of isolation, confusion and frustration.

Kabuki UK was set up by a group of parents who all have a child affected by Kabuki Syndrome.

We know better than anyone what newly diagnosed families are going through.

Kabuki UK aims to provide support and advice both online and through a network of contacts. To provide grants for essential equipment, to raise awareness of Kabuki Syndrome in the general and medical world and organise fun days and events for families across the UK.
